Mayor Cherie Wood

Funding our Future: SSLFD, more than just fires.

The recent establishment of the Public Safety Service Special Revenue Fund and the merging of all the city's Public Safety departments under one budgetary item has increased the community's curiosity about these departments and their services. As part of my continuing commitment to improving transparency in government, I want to take this opportunity to raise awareness about the breadth of services our Public Safety departments provide. This month I'm highlighting the South Salt Lake Fire Department.

When we hear a fire truck's siren, our first instinct is to look for smoke. The majority of calls that come into the department are not fire related. Firefighters respond to various emergencies, including car accidents, hazardous material spills and releases, specialty rescues, flooding, and lift assistance for people who cannot get up independently. Of those calls, the majority, about 65%, are medical emergencies. Because all of our firefighters have some degree of EMT training, and many are licensed paramedics, the fire department is often the first to respond to medical and trauma-related calls.

In addition to their emergency response services, our Fire Department is very active in the community, educating South Salt Lake residents about emergency preparedness and providing assistance at community events throughout the year.

At this critical juncture for maintaining essential public safety services, I'm proud of the hard work and dedication of the men and women of our Fire Department and other people as part of the Public Safety Team who provide essential services and programs for our community.

I encourage everyone to learn more about our public safety departments and what they do every day to keep our neighborhoods and City safe and resilient. To learn more about the South Salt Lake Fire Department, keep up with the action on Facebook or Instagram @sslfd.

Building Community. For most city events, you'll often meet members of the SSLFD team. In September some got crafty and helped to paint the parkway at our 'Get to the Jordan River Festival'.

Did you know? About 65% of SSLFD calls are medical emergencies. Trained in CPR, emergency medical procedures and/or licensed paramedics, the fire department is often the first to respond to medical and trauma-related calls.

Trunk or Treat! Meet several members of our SSLFD as well as other City Staff members at Spooky City Hall, Monday, October 31 from 3 pm to 4:45 pm, 220 Morris Ave.

Serving our Youth. Our SSLFD serves our youth by visiting schools and participating in story time to educate and build fire safety awareness. Monday, October 31 from 3 pm to 4:45 pm, 220 Morris Ave.

CITY COUNCIL CORNER

Fall Brings to SSL, Craftoberfest 2022

Corey Thomas, District 2

The month of October brings one of my favorite city events, a celebration of downtown South Salt Lake's creative community in the heart of the Creative Industries Zone. Organized by the SSL Arts Council, Craftoberfest is an all-ages and free event for the public and will take place on Saturday, October 8th, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. The location is just north of Bonwood Bowl and close to the water tower, as the event area is between Main Street and West Temple, along Oakland Avenue.

With live music scheduled, the popular television show 'The Voice' fans may be excited to know that both musical artists, Jordan Matthew Young and Michelle Moonshine will be performing. Over 50+ art vendors will be selling their beautiful often handmade merchandise. And come hungry and thirsty, as you can select to purchase food from several local food trucks or buy SSL local craft beer and cocktails from our 8 breweries and distilleries. Craftoberfest also includes displaying several barrels and kegs that were painted by commissioned artists, and a few will be available to purchase via silent auction during the event.

For those who love the Fall, you don't have to go far to enjoy this amazing outdoor city celebration. Hope to see you all there!

Ariel Andrus Sworn in as New City Recorder

Congrats, to Ariel Andrus, our new City Recorder for South Salt Lake. Sworn in by SSL Justice Court Judge Ryan Richards on September 1, 2022, our city couldn't be in better and more capable hands.

As the City Recorder, most Wednesday evenings are fully dedicated to essential city business meetings, and Ariel plays a very important role. The City Recorders' responsibilities include keeping records for all City Council, Planning Commission, and RDA meetings, GRAMA requests, elections, special event requests, and purchasing.

Welcoming Two New Victim Advocates

Message from SSLPD Chief Jack Carruth

South Salt Lake Victim Services is a team of four committed to the work of victim advocacy and providing support to those who need it. With over 45 years of combined experience in victim and child advocacy, our team is prepared to provide guidance, resources, and referrals particular to your needs.

The team is very conscious of the unique dynamics of our South Salt Lake community. We are fortunate to have a full-time Spanish-speaking advocate, with team members specifically versed in mental health, domestic violence, protective orders, and housing resources. To help better serve our community, let me introduce two of our newest Victim Advocate team members.

Andrea is originally from Boise, Idaho. She received her education from Utah Valley University, where she graduated with a bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice. Before starting as a victim advocate, she worked as a case manager at a Behavioral Health and Addiction Recovery Agency. When she is not working, she enjoys being in nature, playing and listening to music, and reading.

Yesenia was born and raised in the small town of Fillmore, Utah. She is a Snow College Alumni and received her Bachelor of Social Work from Weber State University. She has experience working at a domestic violence shelter, a behavioral treatment facility for teen boys, and skills counseling. She is fluent in Spanish and English and passionate about working with minority populations. Yesenia enjoys spending time with her two dogs, playing Just Dance, mountain biking with her husband, and bingeing a good show when she's not working.

Fire Won't Wait, Plan Your Escape

Message from SSLFD Chief Terry Addison

Fire prevention month seeks to raise awareness about fire safety and home safety to ensure your home and family are prepared in the case of an emergency. This year's theme is "Fire Won't Wait, Plan Your Escape" promoting potentially life-saving messages that can mean the difference between life and death in a fire. Today's homes burn faster and hotter than they used to, minimizing the amount of time to escape safely from your home. You may have as little as two minutes to escape from the time your smoke alarm sounds. Developing a home escape plan with all household members and practicing it regularly ensures that everyone knows what to do when the smoke alarm sounds and uses that time wisely.

CREATE A HOME ESCAPE PLAN

- Make sure your home escape plan meets the needs of all your family members, including those with sensory or physical disabilities.
- Know at least two ways out of every room, if possible.
- Make sure all doors and windows open easily.
- Have an outside meeting place a safe distance from your home. Practice your home fire drill at least twice a year with everyone in the household.

INSTALL AND TEST SMOKE ALARMS

- Smoke alarms should be installed in every sleeping room, outside each separate sleeping area, and on every level of your home.
- Smoke alarms should be interconnected so that when one sounds, they all sound.
- If battery operated, change your batteries when you change your clocks for daylight saving time—when you spring forward or fall back.

CELEBRATE SSL: Downtown & Water Tower Neighborhoods

History – Central Pointe

The S-Line opened in December 2013, fifty years after the last streetcar tracks were removed from city streets. The plan had been in the works for many years, after the opening of the north-south TRAX line in 1999 and the planning of both the Parley's Trail and a future transit line. These rail lines converge at Central Pointe Station, the only place in the valley where every light rail line stops.

Transit-oriented development was a bigger driver behind South Salt Lake's push to create a downtown. With a focus on walkability, car-free living, and mixed-use development, the city adopted a downtown zone around this transit hub and centered on a large piece of property it acquired for redevelopment. Formerly Burton Lumber, it now houses WinCo, a townhome project, and an upcoming mixed-use project south of Central Pointe Place.

The Water Tower District is a neighborhood undergoing an unexpected revival. Long-time anchors Bonwood Bowl and Horton Water Tank grab your first glance. Taking a second look, people find new housing, and schools Woodrow Wilson Elementary and Granite Technical Institute. Small shops on West Temple and Main offer items out of the mainstream and are finding good company with Level Crossing Brewing. There are several streets of quaint historic homes that have long held on as the city expanded, and are now enjoying a new sense of community and places to walk and bike.

Craftoberfest

In the fall months, Craftoberfest is a celebration of South Salt Lake's creative community in the heart of the Creative Industries Zone. Annually, artists, business owners and community members gather to hear live music, eat delicious food, sample new brews and engage with creatives. Craftoberfest also features custom barrels and kegs hand-painted by local artists in collaboration with community breweries and distilleries.

BOUNDARIES:

Downtown is easy to define - it is the northeast quadrant of the "spaghetti bowl" - from the corner of State Street and 2100 South to the corner of I-80 and I-15. The Water Tower neighborhood is just south of I-80, down to 2700 S, west of State Street. The Creative Industries Zone (aka the Zone) overlaps both as small business and nightlife destinations dot West Temple and adjacent streets.

Transit-Oriented Development in Downtown SSL

The demand for new housing continues, and here are some of the most recent Transit-Oriented Development (TOD) developments in South Salt Lake. In its planning, the Downtown allows high-density and vertical development, due to its proximity to many forms of public transit, including biking, walking, UTA bus lines, S-Line streetcars, and TRAX stations.

The Creative Industries Zone

The identity of THE ZONE is a creative synergy of entrepreneurs and artists. Located between 2100 South and Mill Creek (3000 S) along West Temple between State Street and TRAX - is a supportive and welcoming community stimulating local economic growth through creative, small businesses such as music, drink, dance, art, print, design, and craft industries that produce and sell hand-made products for local enjoyment.

7 Going on 8 Distilleries & Breweries: Level Crossing Brewing, Grid City Beer Works, Dented Brick Distillery, Sugar House Distillery, Beehive Distilling, SaltFire Brewing, Shades Brewing, and Apex Brewing. Explore them all next time you visit downtown.

Keeping Our Promise Celebrating 10 Years

The work of Promise South Salt Lake began in 2008 in response to the murder of a young girl, Hser Ner Moo, in a housing complex that served a large resettlement of refugee families. This tragic event rallied the community to push for additional programs and services, and through the leadership of Mayor Cherie Wood and partnerships with the South Salt Lake Police Department, United Way of Salt Lake, Granite School District, and the City's recreation department, we launched our first afterschool program and community center, named after Hser Ner Moo.

When Mayor Cherie Wood took office in 2009 she worked with the Promise team to research models of other successful communities and develop the 3 Promises which represent our highest hopes for the community. From there we continued to see a need in the community and through donations, grants, and expanded partnerships began programming at Woodrow Wilson Elementary, Lincoln Elementary, Granite Park Junior High, and Central Park Community Center, and Historic Scott School over the next three years.

After seeing great outcomes from our programs and wanting to stay true to our Promises, we knew the only way to have population level change was to be accessible to everyone through a City-wide system. With the support of Mayor Wood and the City Council we became an official City department in 2012.

Now, throughout the 10 years of our work being institutionalized as a City department, Promise South Salt Lake has grown to become a holistic, community-wide initiative comprised of 14 programs in 12 locations across our small City and we continue to be dedicated to Keeping Our Promise!
